

John Martin Position Paper
Queen Anne's Revenge

I, John Martin, Doctor Graduate of the Royal College of Surgeon in Scotland am humbly here to serve the crew of the Queen Anne's Revenge in all medical matters. Having graduated from an excellent school, and saving the captain's daughter, I provide a most useful skill that shouldn't be relegated to the carpenter. I will be ensuring your health and advising you what foods and medication you should take to ensure your well being. We sailors and free men and women are under a magnificent leader who cares about our health and wishes to ensure that we don't fall ill from the numerous diseases of the sea. I recommend that all of the crew eat citrus and fresh foods if possible. If you need me for anything, you will find me in the lower deck. Finally, I encourage the continued use of non violent means of acquiring medicine (from Colonial Governments) when needed through the use of blockades and capturing of hostages for medicine.
